

Damage problems to food materials in international sea transportation

Dr. Rosa K. Pawsey, author and former director of London South Bank University's Food Safety and Control Programme

NABC Forum
Friday, Sept. 26
1:15pm
Waters Hall 137

A food scientist and food microbiologist, Dr. Pawsey offers a wealth of food safety experience through her consultancy to food businesses, world-wide travels connected with food transportation problems, advice provided to the insurance industry regarding food-transportation cargo claims, and investigation of quality problems in supply chains covering Antarctica, Europe, and Japan.

Sponsor: Parallel Paths program and the Frontier program for the historical studies of border security, food security, and trade policy

<http://frontier.k-state.edu>

Pre-lecture student workshop – Wed., 24 Sept, 5pm, 235 Coles Hall

Undergraduate and graduate students are invited to an interactive workshop with Dr. Pawsey and Dr. Justin Kastner. RSVP to Julianne Jensby (jcjensby@k-state.edu).

